

A linear source-plus-action model predicts displacement

open points: five held-out family folds (fold consistency, not a confidence interval)